

Gurit to Exhibit at Composites 2013, USA

24 January 2013, Isle of Wight, UK – Gurit, a leading global supplier of composite materials, engineering, tooling, parts and systems is to exhibit at Composites 2013, from Tuesday 29th January to Thursday 31st January 2013 in Orlando. The exhibition to be held in Orlando, Florida, is regarded as North America's premier composites event with over 220 exhibitors and 650 different companies represented.

Exhibiting on booth 872, Gurit will be showcasing its composite materials and engineering capabilities. Products highlighted include Gurit's full core materials range. The range comprises of Corecell™, PVCell®, G-PET and Balsaflex®, all with a distinct range of properties and attributes and available in sheet form or tailored pieces in kit format. Gurit USA can now offer one of the shortest lead-times for core materials in the market with 10 days from order to dispatch.

Composites 2013 will mark the first exhibition since Gurit implemented a unified global brand strategy. All products and services will be marketed under the Gurit brand and draw upon the knowledge, expertise and innovation of the group. The strategy reflects Gurit's comprehensive offering, global geographic presence and ever wider industry reach.

Staff from Gurit's US sales and engineering teams will be available on the booth to discuss some of the recent projects they have been working on including wheel rims for sports cars, ice hockey equipment and composite parts for cherry picker cranes. To find out more about Gurit's composite materials expertise visit booth 872.
